

Ultrasound

Before you were born, Doctor Yan used an ultrasound machine to look inside Mom's belly to see you. Ultrasound is a very high pitched sound. So high you can't even hear it.

Oh! You mean like a dog whistle. I've got one of those somewhere.

Sort of, but even higher than that. Even dogs can't hear the kind of sound that ultrasound machines can make. The tool that the doctor uses has a probe, that thing in his hand that puts out these really high pitched sounds. These sounds bounce off things inside of people and the machine can turn the bounced back sound into a sort of picture of the stuff inside. See, there's your head, and there's your heart beating!

Ohhhh, huh! Well, if that's me, they sure didn't catch my good side!

Yeah, actually I think they pretty much did.

Ohhh, well I, HEY!
