

What is IVH, or bleeding in the brain?

IVH stands for intraventricular hemorrhage, and it's a condition that often can affect babies, especially when born prematurely. So generally, the more premature a baby, the higher the risk for developing IVH. And what it really describes is bleeding within the ventricles of the brain and it can be from mild, moderate to severe.