

Baby's First Teacher

Your baby has A LOT to learn about the world around them. And their fast-growing brain is ready for it!

The first 5 years of a child's life are key in their development. And you have a crucial role to play: You are your baby's first teacher! You get to teach them how to interact with others, use language, and solve problems.

To help your baby learn and grow: Talk, read, and sing to them; Encourage playtime; Give them a safe place to explore their world; And respond to their needs in a predictable, loving way.

With lots of love and support, you'll teach your child how to thrive!
